

Gonzaga University Presents:

Being Religious Interreligiously

1964: Fifty Years Ago at Vatican II and the Catholic Commitment to Interreligious Dialogue

Featuring

John Borelli

Special Assistant to the President

Georgetown University

Dr. John Borelli is the Special Assistant to the President for Interreligious Initiatives at Georgetown University, a post he has held since 2004, and is responsible for designing and coordinating special projects that further the university's contributions to dialogue and understanding. For sixteen years, he was the associate director of the Secretariat for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs at the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, serving as interim director from 2001 to 2002. He staffed the Bishops' Subcommittee on Interreligious Dialogue, managing three ongoing regional dialogues with Muslims, Buddhists, and Hindus, along with other interreligious projects. He has also worked on national ecumenical dialogues with Orthodox Christians and Anglicans and has facilitated other ecumenical activities.

Thursday, October 2, 7:00-8:30 p.m.

Law School Barbieri Courtroom

Free and Open to the Public

Questions? Contact Dr. John Sheveland, Religious Studies,
(509) 313-6784, sheveland@gonzaga.edu

gonzaga.edu/religious-studies

Event Sponsors: Offices of the Vice President for Mission and Chief Diversity Officer

COLLEGE OF ARTS
& SCIENCES