Commencement Address
And Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree
Cornelia “Connie” E. Davis, M.D.

Raised in the San Francisco Bay Area, Dr. Cornelia E. Davis, better known as Connie, knew from early on that she had a calling in medicine. But while some may see a career in health care as merely a job, Dr. Davis saw it as a calling, a vocation. Her vocation would take her all around the world, turning her intellect into impact, access into action. A journey that would transform the field of scientific exploration, saving millions all around the globe.

In the early 60's, Connie Davis came to Spokane to attend Gonzaga, and it was her year at Gonzaga-in-Florence that showed her the world, the beauty in different cultures, and the power that would come from giving back through medicine.

After graduating in 1967, Connie was one of the first black women admitted to the University of California, San Francisco's School of Medicine. In 1968, the World Health Organization set out to rid the world of smallpox and in 1975, after completing her residency in pediatrics, the World Health Organization asked Dr. Davis to move to Delhi to work in the Smallpox Eradication Program. It was at that time that Dr. Davis chose a less traveled path, a decision that would have profound global ramifications.

While in India, Dr. Davis faced ingrained sexism and caste discrimination but – unsurprising to all who know her – she didn't let anything stand in her way. She blazed trails through the scorching desert on camel-back, ventured into the tense terrain of neighboring borders, and negotiated with smugglers – all in pursuit of her mission.

This chapter of her extraordinary journey came to a triumphant conclusion in 1977 when an international team declared smallpox eradicated in India. Then, just three years later, the World Health Organization declared smallpox completely eradicated. No other major disease has been eliminated from humankind and today the only samples of the smallpox virus remain in a U.S. lab near Washington, D.C.

In 1990, Dr. Davis was sent by the World Health Organization to Addis Ababa to assist the Ethiopian government in preventing meningitis outbreaks. While working there, she was caught up in the fast-moving civil war and while rebels captured strongholds of the Ethiopian government; nonetheless, she remained to serve as Acting Director of the WHO Emergency Preparedness and Response Centre.

While some may have faltered in their resolve, Dr. Davis remained steadfast. While continuing to provide expert assistance to control epidemics, she felt a calling to a new role in her life: that of mother. She submitted an adoption application and after being approved, witnessed further destruction occurring all around her. While waiting for the news of whether she would be blessed with a baby, her house was destroyed by rebels. Walking by St. George Cathedral, she saw an infant girl found on the steps out front of the church and knew in that moment that she had found her daughter. Five days later, she and her daughter were evacuated to Geneva, Switzerland.

Dr. Davis earned her Master of Public Health degree from Johns Hopkins' School of Public Health and went on to work in the Epidemic Intelligence Service at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. For the next 30 years, she worked to battle disease outbreaks in Africa and Asia. An intrepid world traveler, she has worked in or traveled to 97 countries and territories and today lives on the northern shores of Lake Chapala near Guadalajara, Mexico.

In recognition of her dedication to preserving human life through health care, service, and justice, and in recognition of the profound impact she has had, and continues to have, on the lives of so many, Gonzaga University is proud to bestow on this day upon alumna Dr. Cornelia Davis the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, and to welcome her with gratitude, as the distinguished speaker at this, Gonzaga's 132nd Graduate and Doctoral Commencement.

Gonzaga University Coat of Arms

The original seal adopted by the University in the early nineties depicted an eagle with protectively spread wings surrounded by the name, Gonzaga University. The new seal, designed about 1914, took the form of a coat of arms and has been used on all degrees, medals, and formal documents since that time.

The eagle of the original seal was retained. It perches, with wings still spread protectively, atop a coat of arms in the form of a shield.

The dexter chief hatchment contains two gray wolves with forepaws upon a black pot and chain on a field of white. This represents the House of Loyola (lobo-y-olla, i.e., the wolves and the pot), Ignatius Loyola being the founder of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits). The pride of the House of Loyola was that it fed the poor and kept the wolf from its door.

In the bottom right hatchment (sinister base), there are depicted the arms of the House of Gonzaga, a purple cross sustaining an inescutcheon, the lions of Florence, and three purple bars for the ecclesiastical dignity of the House. The four falcons in the corners of the escutcheon represent the hunting prowess of the family.

In the upper right (sinister chief), in the colors of Spain, are seven red bars on a field of gold, given to the House of Onez by the King, because seven brothers of that House distinguished themselves in the service of Spain.

In the bottom left (dexter base), are a sunburst over the Spokane Falls, a pine tree and an Indian tepee. All are representative of the Spokane community, which is named for the Spokane Indians. Spokane means children of the sun.

The eagle in the crest is the American bald eagle of the Republic and the symbols above: the IHS is the name of Jesus, His cross, and the three nails of His crucifixion. In the crest the nails and lettering are black with a surrounding halo of gold. The inescutcheon in the center of the shield carries an immaculate white G on a field of royal blue, the colors of the University.

The scroll carries the letters AMDG, which stand for Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam (To God's Greater Glory), the motto of the Society of Jesus as given to it by its founder, Saint Ignatius Loyola. Under the scroll is the year of the University's founding, 1887. The wreath of bay leaves on the right represents classic renown and the wreath of oak on the left signifies civic pride.

Academic Regalia

College and university graduation ceremonies are resplendent with color. One is likely to see almost every color in the spectrum, representing scholarly achievement in many academic fields.

Based upon the costumes worn at universities in the 14th and 15th centuries, today's American academic dress was standardized in 1895. It includes the familiar square mortarboard cap symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has a tassel which may be black or an appropriate color (e.g., gold for those with a doctoral degree, purple for law). The custom of shifting the cap's tassel from the right side to the left signifies the conferring of the degree. Three styles of gowns and hoods represent bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees.

The bachelor's gown usually has long pointed sleeves, while the master's gown has a long crescent-shaped sleeve. The doctor's has a very full, bell-shaped sleeve with three velvet bands matching the velvet facing of the gown opening. The velvet on the doctor's gown often is the color appropriate to the wearer's field of study.

Of the three styles of hoods, the doctor's is naturally the most elaborate. All three hoods are made of material to match the gowns and are lined in the official color of the institution which conferred the degree, with a chevron used for a second color if needed. (Gonzaga's colors are blue and white.) The colored velvet binding indicates the academic area in which the degree was received—white for liberal arts, yellow for science, drab for business, purple for law, light blue for education, scarlet for theology, and so forth.

Academic Banners and Hood Colors

Commencement features the college and school banners placed on the stage. The banners represent the various schools of the University and are placed in order according to the dates the schools were established.

The College of Arts & Sciences is the original school, established in 1887. Students wear white hoods for liberal arts, yellow for science, scarlet for theology.

The Library was opened in 1887 for collaboration, study, discovery, and reflection. In 1992 it was renamed the Foley Center in honor of alumnus Ralph E. Foley and his wife Helen Higgins Foley.

The School of Law was started in 1912. Students display purple on their gowns and hoods to represent the legal field.

The School of Business Administration began in 1921. Students wear drab hoods.

The School of Education was established in 1928, and students wear light blue hoods for education, citron for counseling, and white for arts.

The School of Engineering & Applied Science began in 1934, and students wear orange for engineering, and yellow for science.

The Gonzaga in Florence Program began in 1963 and provides learning opportunities abroad across many disciplines.

The School of Leadership Studies was established in 2018. Students wear white for arts, crimson for communication, and dark blue for philosophy.

The School of Health Sciences (formerly the School of Nursing and Human Physiology) was established in 2023. Students wear apricot hoods for nursing, and yellow hoods for science.

Presidential Chain of Office

The Gonzaga presidential chain of office, sometimes referred to as the presidential medallion, is worn as part of the president's academic attire at ceremonial occasions such as Commencement and Convocations. The chain is worn around the neck and drapes down across the chest and the back. Its design combines the Coat of Arms of the university and important dates that represent the university's history. The medallion with the Coat of Arms and the name is the focal point of the chain.

Commencement Follow-up Information

Diplomas

Diplomas are mailed within two months of the student's final semester. Be sure Zagweb has the appropriate mailing address.

The listing of graduates, degrees, and academic honors in this program is preliminary and subject to final degree requirement evaluation. The posting of the earned degree on the official transcript record in the Registrar's Office remains the official testimony of possession of the degree. The diploma of Gonzaga University, signed and sealed by its appropriate officers, is a document bearing public notification of the degree.

National Anthems

Star Spangled Banner

*O say can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
O say does that Star Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?*

O Canada!

*O Canada! Our home and native land!
True patriot love in all of us command.
With glowing hearts we see thee rise
The true north strong and free!
From far and wide, O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
God keep our land glorious and free!
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.*
