Commencement Address and Honorary Doctor of Public Service Edward “Ed” Taylor, Ph.D.

The ancient Greeks believed in and promoted the idea of the good life as a balance between healthy mind and healthy body. If you add to those qualities the virtues of remarkable intelligence, generosity, and compassion, you have the start of a fair description of our honoree this morning: Dr. Edward “Ed” Taylor. He demonstrates, in the words of Jesse Jackson, that “Leadership cannot just go along to get along. Leadership must meet the moral challenge of the day.”

Ed was a quiet but unstoppable force to be reckoned with the moment he stepped onto our campus as an undergraduate in the late 1970s, modeling the ideal of scholar-athlete. By 1978, he had graduated with a double major of sociology and psychology, while serving as captain of the men’s basketball team. He remained at Gonzaga to earn a master’s degree in psychology and then completed his formal education with a Ph.D. in educational leadership and policy studies from the University of Washington. He remained a life-long learner even as he became a life-long teacher, with his undergraduate alma mater as the continuing beneficiary of his commitment to education. After serving on the Gonzaga Board of Regents, he joined our Board of Trustees in 2007, where he put his leadership skills to exemplary use as the Chair of the Academic and Student Affairs Policy Committee, the Athletic Compliance Committee, and the Long-Term Planning Committee. Recognized as a Distinguished Alumnus of the University, Dr. Taylor was this past December elected Trustee Emeritus, after seventeen invaluable years of service as a Trustee.

Since 1995, he has been a faculty member and leader in the University of Washington’s College of Education, focusing on comparative education in the United States and South Africa, exploring and broadening thought around the history of education. His scholarship has advanced our understanding of the moral dimensions of education in general, and integrative education specifically; and he has led the way in articulating the intersection of education and social justice.

Currently Dr. Taylor serves as Vice Provost and Dean of Undergraduate Academic Affairs at the University of Washington, enhancing the undergraduate experience and broadening access to opportunities that will equip students to make the most of their education as they learn to utilize it in the world beyond college. He has shared his experiences and wisdom through his many writings and speeches on racial reconciliation, civil discourse, and effective communication within and beyond academe. If, as Warren Benis tells us, “Leadership is the capacity to translate a vision into reality,” Ed Taylor does just that in multiple ways. Ed is a member of the Mind & Life Steering Council where he serves with scholars and practitioners to bridge science and contemplative wisdom to foster insight and inspire action toward flourishing. He is also a founding member of Rainier Scholars, member of the University Council of the United States International Affairs-Africa, as well as member of the Boards of the Seattle Foundation, College Spark Washington, and Rwanda Girls Initiative. Through his contributions to our world, he continues to translate his vision for educational opportunity and equity into reality each and every day.

Ed Taylor brings to life that core Jesuit value of the magis in his tireless efforts to highlight the crucial importance of diversity in our society and especially in our systems of education. He exhorts us to be “passionate about the pursuit of truth, beauty, solidarity and justice” and reminds us that the commitment to recognizing and seeking diversity “calls us to a more conscientious relationship with one another and with our world.”

President Eisenhower pointed out that “the supreme quality for leadership is unquestionable integrity” and Dr. Taylor exemplifies that sage observation. The future, in Dr. Taylor’s own words, lies in “in what we say now and what we do now.” It is “in our hands, the hands of everyday people, citizens, neighbors, friends, elders. At dinner tables, in classes, in neighborhoods, many wonder about our future as a nation and world. We must communicate, tell our stories, give each other hope. We all have stories to tell. And we can tell the stories of those with whom we differ, so that we can find ways to bridge the chasms that divide us in the struggle for justice and equality.”

Recognizing and honoring, on this day, his three decades of educated service to creating inclusive, sustainable opportunities for all those who lives he has changed for the better, Gonzaga University is proud to bestow upon distinguished alumnus Dr. Edward Taylor the degree of Doctor of Public Service, honoris causa, as we welcome him, most gratefully, to be our distinguished speaker at this, Gonzaga University’s 131st Undergraduate Commencement.

Baccalaureate Academic Honors

Degree candidates who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance and who have completed at least sixty-four Gonzaga undergraduate hours with a minimum grade point average of 3.50 are academically distinguished at the Commencement ceremony. The University further distinguishes between three levels of honors by specific grade point averages: Cum Laude for a grade point average between 3.50 and 3.69, Magna Cum Laude for a grade point average between 3.70 and 3.89, and Summa Cum Laude for a grade point average of 3.90 or higher. For the Commencement ceremony, honors are based on the cumulative grade point average as of the fall semester. Final honors are based on graduates' final grade point averages after their final term of academic course work and are printed on the student diploma and transcript. Final honors designations may differ from Commencement honors.

For candidates with 48 to 63 Gonzaga semester hours and a minimum 3.50 grade point average, with Distinction honors are designated.

Academic Regalia Accessories for Co-Curricular Involvement

Out-of-class involvement is a significant part of the Gonzaga student experience. Traditionally, the Student Affairs Division has acknowledged particular involvements, affinity groups, or students from diverse backgrounds with cords, pins, or medallions at graduation. This regalia is awarded at celebrations prior to the ceremony:

African American students wear a Kente stole provided by the Spokane African American Community organization.

Asian/Asian American & Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander students wear a stole provided by a local community organization consortium.

Gonzaga Student Body Association leaders wear a pin.

Gonzaga Women in Business members wear a pin.

Latina/o/x students wear a sarape provided by the Spokane Hispanic Business Association.

LGBTQ+ members wear a rainbow tassel provided by the Lincoln LGBTQ+ Resource Center.

Living and Learning Community members wear a silver and blue cord.

Native American students wear a stole provided by the Greater Spokane Native American Education Committee.

Payne Center for Leadership Development students wear a pin.

Residence Housing Association members wear a pin.

Setons wear a chrome pin featuring the club insignia.

Varsity athletes wear a braided red, white, and navy blue cord.

Veterans wear a red, white, and blue cord.

Gonzaga University Coat of Arms

The original seal adopted by the University in the early nineties depicted an eagle with protectively spread wings surrounded by the name, Gonzaga University. The new seal, designed about 1914, took the form of a coat of arms and has been used on all degrees, medals, and formal documents since that time.

The eagle of the original seal was retained. It perches, with wings still spread protectively, atop a coat of arms in the form of a shield.

The dexter chief hatchment contains two gray wolves with forepaws upon a black pot and chain on a field of white. This represents the House of Loyola (lobo-y-olla, i.e., the wolves and the pot), Ignatius Loyola being the founder of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits). The pride of the House of Loyola was that it fed the poor and kept the wolf from its door.

In the bottom right hatchment (sinister base), there are depicted the arms of the House of Gonzaga, a purple cross sustaining an inescutcheon, the lions of Florence, and three purple bars for the ecclesiastical dignity of the House. The four falcons in the corners of the escutcheon represent the hunting prowess of the family.

In the upper right (sinister chief), in the colors of Spain, are seven red bars on a field of gold, given to the House of Onez by the King, because seven brothers of that House distinguished themselves in the service of Spain.

In the bottom left (dexter base), are a sunburst over the Spokane Falls, a pine tree and an Indian tepee. All are representative of the Spokane community, which is named for the Spokane Indians. Spokane means children of the sun.

The eagle in the crest is the American bald eagle of the Republic and the symbols above: the IHS is the name of Jesus, His cross, and the three nails of His crucifixion. In the crest the nails and lettering are black with a surrounding halo of gold. The in-escutcheon in the center of the shield carries an immaculate white G on a field of royal blue, the colors of the University.

The scroll carries the letters AMDG, which stand for Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam (To God's Greater Glory), the motto of the Society of Jesus as given to it by its founder, Saint Ignatius Loyola. Under the scroll is the year of the University's founding, 1887. The wreath of bay leaves on the right represents classic renown and the wreath of oak on the left signifies civic pride.

Academic Regalia

College and university graduation ceremonies are resplendent with color. One is likely to see almost every color in the spectrum, representing scholarly achievement in many academic fields.

Based upon the costumes worn at universities in the 14th and 15th centuries, today's American academic dress was standardized in 1895. It includes the familiar square mortarboard cap symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has a tassel which may be black or an appropriate color (e.g., gold for those with a doctoral degree, purple for law). The custom of shifting the cap's tassel from the right side to the left signifies the conferring of the degree. Three styles of gowns and hoods represent bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees.

The bachelor's gown usually has long pointed sleeves, while the master's gown has a long crescent-shaped sleeve. The doctor's has a very full, bell-shaped sleeve with three velvet bands matching the velvet facing of the gown opening. The velvet on the doctor's gown often is the color appropriate to the wearer's field of study.

Of the three styles of hoods, the doctor's is naturally the most elaborate. All three hoods are made of material to match the gowns and are lined in the official color of the institution which conferred the degree, with a chevron used for a second color if needed. (Gonzaga's colors are blue and white.) The colored velvet binding indicates the academic area in which the degree was received—white for liberal arts, yellow for science, drab for business, purple for law, light blue for education, scarlet for theology, and so forth.

Academic Banners and Hood Colors

Commencement features the college and school banners placed on the altar. The banners represent the various schools of the University and are placed in order according to the dates the schools were established.

The College of Arts & Sciences is the original school, established in 1887. Students wear white hoods for liberal arts, yellow for science, scarlet for theology.

The Library was opened in 1887 for collaboration, study, discovery, and reflection. In 1992 it was renamed the Foley Center in honor of alumnus Ralph E. Foley and his wife Helen Higgins Foley.

The School of Law was started in 1912. Students display purple on their gowns and hoods to represent the legal field.

The School of Business Administration began in 1921. Students wear drab hoods.

The School of Education was established in 1928, and students wear light blue hoods for education, citron for counseling, and white for arts.

The School of Engineering & Applied Science began in 1934, and students wear orange for engineering, and yellow for science.

The Gonzaga in Florence Program began in 1963 and provides learning opportunities abroad across many disciplines.

The School of Nursing and Human Physiology was established in 2013, represented by apricot hoods for nursing, and yellow hoods for science.

The School of Leadership Studies was established in 2018. Students wear white for arts, crimson for communication, and dark blue for philosophy.

Presidential Chain of Office

The Gonzaga presidential chain of office, sometimes referred to as the presidential medallion, is worn as part of the president's academic attire at ceremonial occasions such as Commencement and Convocations. The chain is worn around the neck and drapes down across the chest and the back. Its design combines the Coat of Arms of the university and important dates that represent the university's history. The medallion with the Coat of Arms and the name is the focal point of the chain. 1887, the School of Law–1912, the School of Business Administration–1921, the School of Education–1928, the School of Engineering and Applied Science–1934, Gonzaga in Florence–1963, the School of Professional Studies–1975, Foley Center–1990, the School of Nursing and Human Physiology–2010, and the Center for Global Engagement–2013.
