Coach Mark Few cited for DUI

BY ASHER ALI

Gonzaga men’s basketball head coach Mark Few was cited for driving under the influence Monday night after being involved in a single-vehicle crash on North Kaniksu, Idaho.

According to the report of the case filed by the Coeur d’Alene Police Department that Few was cited for driving under the influence, the officer stated that Few had driven off the road Monday night after failing to turn left.

Few was going to a traffic sign three times.

In March, UMEC presented the 11th annual Diversity Monologues at University Hall. This event brought together students to workshop their piece, before performing the work all year with faculty and professional spoken-word artists.

Students apply with a piece in the fall and continue to work with your peer institutions that are also in Jesuit communities. Fawcett said the recognition from JASPA. JASPA also awarded DICE with the Ignatian Medal for Outstanding Commitment to Diversity and Social Justice. Fr. Sitter and Weitz were around when Ayers was a student at GU, and they have encouraged her over the years.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University is committed to the engagement of the members of the community, the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

“[Winning the award] is such an incredible honor for me,” Ayers said.

However, Fawcett said that the Diversity Monologues are just one part within the pillars of programming the UMEC works to build and provide for the GU campus.

“We organize the work we do around three pillars, monitoring, social justice programming, which is what Diversity Monologues falls under along with speakers and films, and then Inter-cultural Development in the dialogue programs,” Fawcett said.

As a Jesuit institution, Gonzaga University looks to connect with others in the community, and the University, and the Gonzaga faculty.

Winning the award is known as Opportunity Northeast. Swank is responsible for helping create the Family Relationships in Diverse Gonzaga Environments (BRIDGE) and Act Six. BRIDGE is a pre-orientation program designed to facilitate the transition to the Gonzaga University.
Senior Asher Ali is serving as The Gonzaga Bulletin’s fall 2021 editor-in-chief after working for the publication for three-and-a-half years as a staff writer and sports editor.

Meet Asher Ali: fall editor-in-chief

Senior Asher Ali is ready to perform his duties as the fall 2021 editor-in-chief of The Gonzaga Bulletin. His main goal this semester is to challenge the lack of investment in the Bulletin and to bring its effort up to par with other student publications.

The Bulletin has been underfunded and Ali is working to change that. He wants to show the campus community that the Bulletin is a place where students can go to translate the opinions of the people to themselves.

Ali plans to work with the staff in a way where they see him working just as hard as them, if not harder, that’s hopefully going to bring their effort up. He also wants to show the faculty that they’re investing in the Bulletin.

Ali is a very direct person, so his communication can be a little bit nerve-wracking or scary for some people. He wants people to see his writing and the flow is natural. He wants people to see his writing and think the flow is natural.

He said, “as long as you go out and your intent is to get the job done, and you get out there and pursue it with the passion for it that you have for that story, then it’s all right above, that’s why I’m passionate about the stories you take.”

That’s what I want my Bulletin writers to be like; to not afraid to fail, to be different, to be artistic and challenge themselves.

Asher Ali, fall editor-in-chief of the Gonzaga Bulletin
It feels incredible to be honored and recognized and yet it’s part of our whole team here at the center and our partners across the university that really have made the work successful.

Molly Ayers, senior director for the Center of Community Engagement
Texas steals women's rights

The Black Widow's controversy isn't about movies

By SOFIA CHAVEZ

In a 5-4 vote, three Trump-appointed U.S. Supreme Court Justices sided with Texas in a case that is now headed to the Court. The justices found that the Roe v. Wade law was unconstitutional, and the state is free to regulate abortion in any way it chooses. The decision has sparked a nationwide debate over reproductive rights and is expected to have implications for other areas of law, including immigration and gun control.

The decision has also triggered a backlash from activists and organizations around the country. Pro-choice groups are calling for a renewed commitment to protecting women's rights, while pro-life groups are celebrating a victory in their decades-long battle.

The decision has also raised concerns about the future of the Supreme Court and its role in shaping the law. As President Biden begins to fill judicial vacancies, many are wondering how his appointees will rule on other important issues, such as climate change and healthcare.

In the wake of the decision, many are calling foraction to be taken to protect women's rights. This includes measures such as expanding access to abortion services, ensuring access to contraception, and protecting women's rights in the workplace.

As the country grapples with the implications of the decision, it is clear that the fight for reproductive rights is far from over.
Back to backpacking: Best places to go in Inland Northwest

Gonzaga students are lucky to live in a beautiful place with endless outdoor activities, and one great way to experience the Inland Northwest is to go backpacking. Fortunately, students do not need to travel far to go on a great trip, and if they need gear or advice, GU has ample resources for them.

Gonzaga Outdoors, located in the basement of the John J. Hemmingson Center, is the destination for students looking to try backpacking near Spokane. Many students are familiar with the guided trips provided by the program, but GU Outdoors can also rent out gear for students’ own trips. The trip leaders and program directors in the office are also able to give advice and answer questions.

“Wy take students different places in Idaho, Montana, Washington, and Oregon,” said Kate Lammons, a GU Outdoors trip leader. “We provide backpacking trips, but we can also rent out gear for pretty affordable prices and give lots of advice on where to go and what to do. It’s up to students to do their own trip.”

Fortunately for GU students, there are many trails near Spokane that are great for backpacking. Beehive Lakes is a popular destination, located near Bonners Ferry, Idaho. The trail is 3.6 miles each way and features a beautiful lake and many campsites at the top.

Lone Lake Trail near Mullan, Idaho, is a short and steep climb with a great reward, and it is only an hour-and-a-half drive from campus. It shares a trailhead with Stevens Lake Trail, another great backpacking destination.

Across the border into Montana, there are many more trails, such as Hub and Hazel lakes, a trail that is just under 8 miles round trip and features stunning lakes that both have numerous campsites.

“I really like Heart Lake,” said GU Outdoors Assistant Program Director Dave Gilbert. “It’s beautiful – sometimes there’s mountain goats. There are big cliffs; sometimes there’s still little pockets of snow. Heart Lake is awesome. That whole Idaho-Montana divide has great places to go.”

For students willing to drive a little further, the hike to Stanley Hot Springs in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness in Idaho is popular. The hike is beautiful, but the real treat is the hot springs waiting for hikers at the end.

In addition to GU Outdoors, there are good resources for students to research backpacking trails online. The Washington Trails Association has a virtual hiking guide with 3,897 trails – it features detailed information about the trails as well as reviews on conditions from people who have recently visited.

While backpacking might seem like an intimidating activity to try for the first time, GU students have so many resources available to them that it is easily achievable. With GU Outdoors gear rentals, there is no reason to spend a large amount of money on equipment. There are many knowledgeable and experienced people eager to help students plan their first trip to the backcountry. Guided trips are also the perfect way to try this activity with no prior experience at all.

“People should go backpacking,” Gilbert said. “Day hikes are awesome and camping is awesome, but there is something about going to sleep and waking up having hiked into somewhere really special and remote. It’s a great experience.”

Maureen Parks is a staff writer.

Maureen Parks is a staff writer.

Solution to last Sunday’s puzzle

Level 1

5 6 9 | 7 4 3 | 8 2 1
3 4 8 | 5 7 9 | 6 1 3
6 7 3 | 2 1 5 | 8 9 7

5 7 9 | 6 8 4 | 2 3 1
9 8 4 | 3 6 2 | 1 7 5
2 6 3 | 4 9 1 | 5 8 7

6 3 1 | 7 9 8 | 4 5 2
7 4 5 | 2 1 3 | 9 6 8
8 1 2 | 9 7 6 | 3 4 5

SUDOKU 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
3 6 1 5 4 8 7 9 2
7 5 4 9 6 8 1 3 2
1 9 8 7 3 2 4 6 5
6 2 5 3 9 1 7 4 8
4 7 3 5 2 8 9 1 6
8 1 9 4 6 7 5 3 2
9 6 2 8 7 3 1 5 4
3 8 1 2 4 5 6 7 9
5 4 7 6 9 3 2 8 1
An acceptance of duality: 'Donda' by Kanye West

By NATHAN OMODT

While most view music as a form of artistic expression, others use it as a means to an end. Kanye West latest studio album, "Donda," is one that fits the latter category. The album takes its name from the 15-year-old daughter of Whitney Houston, who died in 2012 from an apparent drug overdose.

"Donda" is in many ways a posthumous tribute to her, as her father, Kanye West, explores themes of faith, loss and redemption throughout the project. It's a powerful and emotive album that speaks to the present moment, as well as the artist's past experiences. It's a testament to West's ability to harness the power of music as a form of healing and personal growth.

The album's lead single, "Lose Yourself," features a sample from the Eminem classic of the same name. The song opens with the line, "I am the greatest," and goes on to explore themes of self-belief and overcoming adversity. The track is a powerful introduction to the album's themes and sets the stage for the emotional journey that follows.

One of the standout tracks on the album is "ليه مو حاببنا," which features a verse from the late Nipsey Hussle. The song is a powerful tribute to Hussle, who was shot and killed in 2019 in Los Angeles. It's a poignant reminder of the impact that music can have on our lives, and the lasting legacy that it can leave behind. The song's use of the Arabic language is also a nod to West's multicultural identity and his desire to connect with audiences around the world.

Another track that stands out is "피 몰리 하트," which features Dave East. The song is a powerful exploration of the struggles that come with fame and success, and the toll they can take on one's mental health. The track is a powerful reminder of the importance of self-care and taking time to be present in the moment.

"Donda" is an album that is both personal and universal, exploring themes of loss, faith, and redemption. It's a powerful and emotional album that will no doubt resonate with listeners for generations to come. It's a testament to Kanye West's ability to connect with his audience on a deep and meaningful level, and a reminder of the power of music to heal and inspire. With "Donda," Kanye West has once again proven that he is a true master of his craft.
Kennel Club activities return with new opportunities

By NATALEE BIRTH

The Gonzaga University's Kennel Club is returning to fall events with various in-person events for students to return to campus and beyond the club reaching out for the Kennel, like sports seasons prior to COVID-19.

Now that Kennel Club can safely host student events, it was looking for the best way to approach this season with more Zag spirit and enthusiasm over the Zoom.

"This year, we are treating [it] as a kennel event," said Macy Ryan, Kennel Club vice president. "That has been our mentality and not trying to think students are really entertaining that.

Kennel Club president, Ryan, and a hold-a-back-to school tailgate on Saturday, Sept. 11 before the Gonzaga's home game against Bowling Green State University. The tailgate welcomed Zags to a social atmosphere with music, games and ice cream. Specially snacks were additionally offered to Kennel Club members on a first come, first serve basis.

Ryan explained the event given "all of our members are here and their friends are in attendance." The event was a "great way to return to the Zoom while creating a first look at the GU event this season, while experiencing the thrilling energy of The Kennel in the comfort of your own home." Ryan said FanFest, an athletics event timed to coincide with the Gonzaga women's basketball team, will be the following weekend for the GU women's basketball team.

In addition to sports-related events, Kennel Club will also continue to hold occasional donation drives and outreach trips. Many Kennel Club Officers this season joined in giving back to the community by dedicating time to helping others. Kennel Club officers focus on giving back to the Spokane community as a partner of gratitude for the enthusiastic and energy that continuously pour into the success of our own athletic programs.

"With limited games and nearly no opportunity to hold in-person events during the past season during the 2020-21 school year, Kennel Club focused on expanding its dedication to Kennel Club services and programs," said the group.

"Parts of it were hard," Ryan said. "Most of what we normally do was taken away from us, but it allowed us to focus on things we normally wouldn't have been able to do.

Last fall, Kennel Club teamed up with Kick Rock and Giving Back Packs to pass out backpacks, masks, food vouchers and bananas to downtown Spokane's homeless community.

"Last year's membership program was one of the only in-person events Kennel Club was able to coordinate all fall.

Bulldogs kick it into high gear for fall season

By TOMMY COMMY

The Gonzaga University's Kennel Club is stepping up its game following a successful spring season in which it saw a new member addition monthly and around the nation due to the pandemic.

Kennel Club President Tyson Garcia is coming off of a strong season which they qualified for the NCAA cross-country championship and just completed the first time in school history on the road of states junior qualification and strong supporting cast behind him.

In their first race this fall, the Zags swept the top three spots in the Idaho Invitational team that featured six runners from BYU and two from San Francisco.

"This year, we are treating [it] as a kennel event," said Tyson said. "That has been our mentality and not trying to think students are really entertaining that.

"Our preseason ranking is a nice reflection of the continual progress this program is making," said Tyson. "I think we can keep that up and improve upon it by November.

"Kennel Club activities return with new opportunities. "As we look at our membership, student-athletes are excited to finally have the events that were taken away, as an improrperly strong opening performance is the weekends overall goal."
The Zags celebrate their 3-0 win against Montana at Luger Field.

Women's soccer strong start will stick

Women's soccer will hope it's not a fleeting moment, as it boasts Santa Clara, Pepperdine — all schools ranked in the United Soccer Coaches poll — as well as BYU and Waves. The biggest challenge so far is the Broncos, however, in a 3-0 loss against Purdue in a 0-1 loss, defeat came on the road to start. The team's sole this season with a 5-1 record this season with a 5-1 record.

Though the Zags only outlasted Florida State last year since Santa Clara women's soccer outlasted Florida State back in the West Coast Conference even be the strongest team in the United Soccer Coaches poll — all schools ranked in the United Soccer Coaches poll — as well as BYU and Waves. The biggest challenge so far is the Broncos, however, in a 3-0 loss against Purdue in a 0-1 loss, defeat came on the road to start. The team's sole this season with a 5-1 record this season with a 5-1 record.

Though the Zags only outlasted Florida State last year since Santa Clara women's soccer outlasted Florida State back in the West Coast Conference even be the strongest team in the United Soccer Coaches poll — all schools ranked in the United Soccer Coaches poll — as well as BYU and Waves. The biggest challenge so far is the Broncos, however, in a 3-0 loss against Purdue in a 0-1 loss, defeat came on the road to start. The team's sole this season with a 5-1 record this season with a 5-1 record.